MINISTRY HAPPENINGS

As the weather continues to become colder and crisper I notice that many people are starting to decorate. I have my decorations out and enjoy curling up and watching Christmas movies to a lit tree and glowing candles with a cup of steaming tea or cider in my hand. Even the churches I presented in or work with are completely decked out for this upcoming holiday. This time of year is such a joyous time of being with family and participating in long-standing traditions. And how could I forget the food?

This season is also the time of good will and giving. In Southern Baptist churches we study and give to international missions in the name of Lottie Moon, one single lady who devoted her life to the people of China. In preparation for a missions banquet I studied her life and reflected yet again on her impact on the world and personally on my life.

Miss Lottie Moon taught us as Southern Baptist's to come together to reach all the nations. As I prepare to get on campus full-time there are approximately 750 international students right here on campus. These students are mostly from India.

Imagine, if we could reach these students and send them home as missionaries to impact their home like Jesus did! We could be that much closer to reaching all nations without even leaving the city!

PERSONAL UPDATE

I am constantly reminded of God's provision and especially thankful this season that He has placed you in my life!

Prayer driving campus each week shows me where the best place to reach these students will be when I get on campus full-time. If you would like to join me and see these students and their need please let me know. I would love company!

I am at 19% of my monthly goal needed to be on campus full-time. As the end of the year approaches I would like to thank each of you who have personally given to this ministry. It is exciting to see how God has and will provide the needed income and funding.

Please let me know if you know anyone or a church who would like to hear more about this ministry.
